

Variety Of Errors Set Stage For Bowling's Resignation

Illegal contracts, public school funds expended on private school property, money spent without prior State approval, and an inaccurate report as to the actual deficit in the county school treasury were among the reasons for the downfall of Gilbert Bowling, county school superintendent until Tuesday when he resigned under pressure.

"Was there any deliberate effort to defraud the county school treasury?"

State officials here Tuesday and Wednesday start work on the crisis in the county school treasury say audits made by the State Department of Education have turned up nothing to indicate anything other than inadvertent mismanagement.

County Overspent

Ted Gilbert, Assistant Superintendent, State Department of Education, provided this answer to the School Board during Monday night's session:

"The deficit has been brought upon by excessive expenditures beyond the ability of the county school treasury to pay and without approval of the State Superintendent of Education."

In a nutshell, that means:

Kentucky school laws took it on the chin during Bowling's term while the Perry County school board treasury was growing weaker and weaker.

The county has a deficit of $146,000 in the treasury. In June, 1957, the school system was approximately $80,000 to the good.

Incidents Tell Story

Just how the deficit developed can be seen by surveying the incidents that Gilbert, Walter Roschi, and Marshall E. Swain, all of the State Department of Education, cited during their meetings Tuesday and Wednesday with the board.

Money was spent illegally at Buckhorn High School and on the Leatherwood gymnasium. The Perry County Health Department was illegally authorized money. The school board and Bowling violated Kentucky law in the purchase of school buses here in May.

Even the United States Constitution got into the act through two violations of "separation of Church and State."

This occurred at Buckhorn High School, leased by the county school board from the Presbyterian Child Welfare Agency. The school board last year installed a new furnace, costing $19,000, at the school, and has apparently only recently replaced an old library building with a new building at an estimated cost of $36,000.

Both expenditures violated Kentucky law, Gilbert told the board, because public funds were used to improve private property. When the board leases property, the law permits only routine expenditures to cover necessary "wear and tear," Roschi explained.

The furnace was installed at a labor cost of over $6,000 by Hazard Plumbing and Heating Co. Parts supplied by the C. M. McClung Co., of Knoxville, Tenn., account for the difference.

No Record In Minutes

The circumstances surrounding the construction of the building at Buckhorn are unusual. There are no records of the contract or board approval in the minutes of the school board, according to Swain, who has supervised much of the auditing here the past several weeks. And members of the board told the three State officials during Tuesday's session they not aware of a contract for the building until the work had been started.

Arrangements for the construction were made between Bowling and W. J. Goodwin, chairman, Presbyterian Child Welfare Agency. During Tuesday's meeting, Gilbert produced a letter from Goodwin to Bowling authorizing the county school superintendent to tear down the library and replace it with the classroom, described as including four rooms and toilet facilities. When the county gives up Buckhorn, the building reverts to the Agency.

Here again, Gilbert told the board, Kentucky law was violated.

While board members Tuesday attempted to rectify this by ordering their new superintendent, Dennis Wooten, to void the contract, there is question about what was achieved. Two members said they thought the building had been completed.

At Leatherwood, the county treasury provided $1,848 for construction of the new gym, Swain said, although the State had never approved the expenditure as required by law.

Swain noted the audit had revealed that the county school system had turned the money over to Earl Helton, identified as treasurer of the Leatherwood Gymnasium Association, a private group which raised funds for the building.

In attempting to trace down what became of the money, Swain said he was informed by Helton that the checks had been converted into cash at the Blue Diamond Coal Co. and the money used to pay contractors.

Swain told the board during Wednesday's session that it is now impossible to identify how the money was spent. He said that while Helton produced some cash receipts for the project, not all of the money can be accounted for by the auditors as required of public funds.

$5,000 For Gym Steel

Also revealed, Tuesday, was that either the board or Bowling had agreed for the county school system to pay a balance of over $5,000 owed for steel used in the gymnasium.

In a letter to the Guarantee Deposit Bank, Cumberland, Helton wrote that the school board would pay off the balance and the interest, Swain revealed.

"Heritage" Asked By Secessionists

WHITESBURG, Ky., Sept. 30 — A leading mountain educator said here last night that Eastern Kentuckians considering seceding from the state are just "asking for the heritage due every Kentuckian without regard to race or habitation."

C. V. Snapp, superintendent of schools at Jenkins, said "nobody down state has a right to jeer at us, to point a finger at us until we have had our fair share of the good things of life here in these hills."

Snapp spoke at the third meeting of the secessionist group, in the Letcher County courthouse.

He described some natural beauties of the mountain area and remarked that "we here in the hills of Kentucky don't have to go to Switzerland to find some of the most beautiful scenes God has permitted man to behold."

"People would go thousands of miles to see it if they knew about it and if they had a way to get here," Snapp said.

He said the Letcher County group is interested in "getting a way and in improving what we have so it will be acceptable to people when they come." In addition, he said, the group is interested in giving to every child in the mountains an education equal to that of the Blue Grass city of Lexington or the river city of Louisville.

"We can't have that as long as two conditions exist—the lack of physical facilities for education and the lack of roads to get the children to those facilities if we had them," Snapp said.

"We must educate the children where they are; if the money's not there, we have to get it there. We'll have to transport them to schools and if there are no roads, we'll have to build roads."

"We dare not neglect them. If we do, we lose a generation. We have just about lost one generation, and we can't afford to lose another."

The secessionists also heard a description of the charges of Virginia, which many believe Eastern Kentucky ought to try to join.

Orby L. Cantrell of Wise County, Va., a member of the Virginia House of Delegates, said his area has received $1,500,000 from the state for roads.

Sunday To Open Fire Safety Week

The week commencing Sunday will be National Fire Prevention Week in Hazard, Mayor Douglas Combs proclaimed here Wednesday.

Mayor Combs urged departments of the city government, schools and civic clubs to work with all other organizations to promote fire safety among the public. He urged all citizens to take part in "relieving hazardous conditions and making our city a safer community in which to work and live."

Napier Plays Here

Integration problems at Wheelwright High School has forced the school to move its game with M. C. Napier at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow night, to Collins Field here. The game was originally scheduled to be played at Wheelwright.

Cooper, Morton To Be Honored

A parade at 10 a.m. and a public speeches by Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton will be the highlights of "Appreciation Day" here, Oct. 11, Bill Gorman, president, North Fork Watershed Association, announced today.

"Appreciation Day" will honor the two Kentucky senators for their efforts in Congress to further the progress of this region, Gorman said.

The parade will be headed by high school bands and will include delegations from most Southeastern Kentucky counties. It will pass down the Hazard By-Pass, turn up Main Street and stop at the Courthouse where Cooper and Morton are scheduled to speak and be recognized in public ceremonies, according to Gorman.

Hazard, he said, will continue "dressing up" for the one-day program. Banners heralding "Appreciation Day" were raised throughout the town and county this week. Bunting, Gorman said, will decorate the Courthouse Hazard businesses, according to Gorman have been invited to decorate windows for the day.

Gorman said the purpose of the program is to acknowledge the two senators' roles in various federal projects which have come to this region since the flood.

"Within Perry County alone," he said, "Senators Cooper and Morton have contributed immeasurably to insure the success of the Buckhorn Dam, low rent public housing, and urban renewal."

"We would like now to look forward to progress on a commercial airport for this region and to better roads, including a federal designation for Ky. 15," Gorman said that while Eastern Kentuckians have long dreamed the Ky. 15 becoming a federal highway, previous efforts to get the designation have never proved successful.

Gorman also noted that the two senators were instrumental in Hazard and Perry County receiving more than $3,500,000 in Small Business Association loans immediately following the flood and that other Eastern Kentucky counties also benefited under the S.B.A. program.

He said that while the senators have indicated they will speak here on flood control, their talks will take in projects not only for the Kentucky River Valley but for the Cumberland Valley and the Big Sandy.

Wooten Named Superintendent

Yerkes Resident Hired On Temporary Basis; County School Teacher To Get Pay, Saturday

Dennis Wooten, Yerkes resident, was named Acting Superintendent of Perry County Schools yesterday afternoon, replacing Gilbert Bowling, who resigned Tuesday under fire leaving the county school system on the brink of bankruptcy.

Bowling's resignation, prepared by him Tuesday morning in Frankfort upon advice of State Department of Education personnel climaxed weeks of auditing and investigating here into

The resignation was turned over to board members by Ted Gilbert, Assistant Superintendent, State Department of Education, during a special call meeting, Tuesday night, at the Perry County Educational Building on High Street.

Simply worded, typewritten in five copies, and signed by Bowling, the letter announced he was resigning his positions as superintendent, school board secretary and school board treasurer. Bowling was not present for the meeting, having departed the building minutes before the board convened.

Shortly after handing the letters of resignation to board members, Gilbert told them that Bowling had been advised in Frankfort of some of the findings of an audit which the State has been conducting here.

He said that when told of the "acute and serious situation in the financial aspects of the Perry County Board, Mr. Bowling admitted he should resign his position."

Parker Named Treasurer

The urgency of Tuesday's night meeting is indicated by the fact that it was called by Dr. Robert Martin, State Superintendent of Education. Martin set up the meeting late Tuesday morning during a phone call to Board Chairman George Caudill.

Named treasurer of the county school board was Gene Parker, of the People's Bank. Parker was selected for the job by the county board at the suggestion of Gilbert, Walter Roschi, Director, Bureau of Administration and Finance, and Marshall E. Swain, Director, Division of Finance, Roschi and Swain are also with the State Department of Education.

The three men rushed to Hazard, Tuesday afternoon, as Dr. Martin's special representatives to prevent the collapse of the county school system in the wake of the resignation announcement.

They assisted the county board in its meetings, Tuesday, and Wednesday, minutes before returning to Frankfort, helped the board work out the final details for getting county school contract employees, including teachers, bus drivers and janitors, paid.

Teachers To Be Paid

Both Hazard banks, the People's and the Citizens State, Tuesday offered to loan the board the money. Payday for contract employees, already a week overdue, will come, Saturday morning at the Education building at 7 a.m. All other payments by the board remain frozen pending State approval.

Parker was contracted by

Couple Shot

Two residents of Busy are in critical condition at the Miners Memorial Hospital, both shot in the stomach Tuesday afternoon at the home of Thomas Floyd, also of Busy.

Lodged in the Perry County jail is Floyd. He is charged with shooting Mr. and Mrs. Luther Johnson with intent to kill. Floyd was arrested immediately after he fired the two shots from a .22 pistol at close range.

Deputy Sheriff Yancey Amis said the shooting occurred shortly after Mrs. Johnson had gone to the Floyd home to do some washing for Mrs. Floyd. She was joined there later by her husband.

Mrs. Floyd told Amis that her husband shot Mr. Johnson but that she did not know who fired the shot that wounded his wife.

Amis said both bullets had been fired from the weapon. According to Amis, Floyd had been drinking when he turned on the Johnsons.

O.F.B.D. Pace Startles Merchants

Hazard merchants, swamped yesterday with bargain-wise Old Fashioned Bargain Day shoppers, were re-stocking shelves this morning in preparation for the finals two days of the city's mammoth, four-day selling campaign.

For shoppers who missed out on the initial offer of specials, Hazard stores were posting new ones to continue throughout Saturday.

At a pace that was leaving Radio Station W.K.I.C. and Herald advertising personnel agitated, ads were changed Wednesday and today as new specials were being posted as old ones ran out.

Rubbing alcohol, regular 50c, replaced toothpaste for one day store. The new special is selling at 25c. A store which was selling $2.95 scatter rugs for 50c ran out of their initial shipment Wednesday, but has another shipment on the way.

Canisters, which were sold out by one firm within an hour of the store's opening were replaced with car spotlights, for 49c—regularly priced at $1.98. Another woman's wear shop which had offered sweater and skirt outfits for $5.00 Wednesday, today replaced this special when it sold out. The new offer are two ladies' sport dresses for $5.00.

A dinnerware set, which is regular priced for $32, is now being offered for $15.95. And children's cotton training pants were being offered by another firm for 10c.

While advertisements in today's Herald carry the same "Old Fashioned Bargain Day" heading, all advertisements have under gone changes. Queried yesterday, local mer-

Studies of school curriculums. Promotion of a plan to improve recreational facilities for teen-agers. . . . Getting and Keeping Qualified Teachers, will receive major emphasis during 1958-59 by P. T. A.'s in Kentucky, according to Mrs. Raymond Bolton, Corbin, president of the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers. In announcing that October will be Membership Enrollment Month, Mrs. Bolton has invited all interested citizens to join their P. T. A. and participate in this and other programs to be carried out during the year.

State membership for 1957-58 totaled 180,174, said Mrs. Merritt, "and the goal for this year is 193,000". Mrs. Dennis Merritt, Louisville, Membership Chairman of Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers, announced that local units throughout the state plan local membership campaigns during October. The Kentucky Congress and its local units are a part of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, with a membership of 11,018,156.

Other activities listed in the state action program for 1958-59 include: The Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers endorses traffic legislation proposed by the Department of Public Safety, that periodic driver examination, periodic vehicle checks and compulsory driver education in high schools should be obtained. Local units are urged to give active support on the state and local level to those agencies that are sponsoring legislation or programs to control the spread of gambling devices, undesirable movies, magazines, etc., that contribute to the delinquency of Kentucky children. The State P. T. A. urge support of federal legislation for schoolhouse construction to provide classrooms needed to improve the present economic situation. The State P. T. A.'s endorse and support the legislation of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers relating to children and youth, namely health, welfare, and civil defense.

The Tenth District, Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers with Mrs. Robert Snowden, P. O. Box 132, Campton, Membership Chairman and Mrs. James R. Brown, Whitesburg, president, urges local units in Breathitt, Lee, Morgan, Menifee, Knott, Letcher, Leslie, Leslie, Owsley and Perry to Pledge Their Loyalty to Tomorrow's Citizens. "Join Your P. T. A."

The Tenth District P. T. A.'s membership goal for 1958-59 has been set for a total of 3,100 members in 25 local units, according to Mrs. Juanita Morgan, Publicity Chairman.

The Hazard P. T. A.'s goal has been set at 450 members, and it is hoped that many honorary members may be added in addition to the Parents and Teachers. Mrs. Eli C. Boggs is the Membership Chairman of the Hazard P. T. A.

Olds Introduces Sport Sedan for 1959

Oldsmobile's distinctively styled and attractively different Dynamic "88" Holiday SportSedan for 1959 represents "family-sized" transportation luxury in sports car design. The thin roofline and rakish wrap-around rear window serve to accentuate the mobile appearance of Oldsmobile's "Linear Look" for 1959. Sweeping full-length along the body, the sculptured twin booms give the car a look of mobility even when parked. They also highlight Oldsmobile's unique two-tone styling for 1959. Recessed in the smart grille, the four-beam headlights are located closer-to-the-road for improved nighttime visibility. The SportSedan body style also is available in the "98" and Super "88" series. Increased interior roominess is a feature of all 1959 Oldsmobile.

Methodist Church To Observe Communion S'day

World-Wide Communion Sunday will be observed in the Bowman Memorial Methodist Church.

On October 5th, many of our Protestant Churches will share in the 19th annual observance of "World-Wide Communion Sunday."

As October 5th begins to dawn just West of the International Date Line in the Islands of the Pacific Ocean, followers of the Christian Faith will begin this Sacred Service which has meant so much to the followers of the Christ. Then as the day-light continues its journey around the earth, men and women who know that they have found forgiveness from their sins and also a peace in their hearts through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, will gather in humble chapels and others in the more stately buildings and cathedrals, to share in this Memorial Service which was instituted by The Christ on the night before His Crucifixion.

You are urged to attend the Church of your choice for this Holy Service.

The Communion elements will be present in two services at the Bowman Memorial Methodist Church in Hazard on this World-Wide Communion Sunday. First at the Morning Worship hour at 10:50 and then at the Evening Worship Service at 7:00 o'clock. You are invited to attend one of these two services and partake of the Holy Communion.

O.E.S. Awards Are Presented

Certificates of awards for nine members of the Mt. Pride Chapter No. 88, order of the Eastern Star, who had twenty five years of membership in O. E. S. were presented to them by their worthy matron, Mrs. Ovetta Basey, at the Liberty Street School Auditorium, Friday evening, Sept. 26, in a public ceremony.

The recipients of the awards were Messrs. Joe Etta Taylor, Sallie McCamey, Alberta Avery, Fannie Banks, Zella Rimbort, Lena Hampton, Lacey Jarmigan, Inez Scott and Milla Thornnton.

Special mention was given to Mr. Robert Basey Jr. Worthy master of Booker T. Washington Masonic Lodge No. 108 for his appointment to Senior Grand Steward of the most Worshipful Grand Lodge of the State of Kentucky, Free and Accepted Masons Prince Hall Affiliation. Mr. Basey is also the patron of Mt. Pride No. 88.

The Worthy Matron, Ovetta Basey was presented with a lovely corsage of yellow roses from the Masonic Order in recognition of her appointment by Cecelia Dunlap Grand Chapter Jurisdiction of Kentucky, to the position of Grand District Deputy. She will serve as supervisor of all subordinate chapters in the Mountain Area.

Refreshments were served at the close of the ceremony.

'Brittany Woman Knitting' Hangs In Old State Capitol, A Prized Painting

By Charles F. Hinds

Following the death of Dixie Seldon in 1935, the heirs of her estate presented one of her prized paintings, "Brittany Woman Knitting," to the Kentucky Historical Society to hang in its free public museum.

Dixie Seldon, a native of Covington where she first saw the light of day in 1868, was one of Kentucky's many successful artists. The Bluegrass state is more often identified with "beautiful women and fast horses." However, its contributions to the fine arts should not be overlooked.

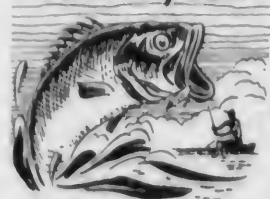

For example, while no attempt will be made to call the roll of all Kentucky's important painters, the following comprise an impressive list, hardly to be excelled elsewhere in America: "Mr." Beck, John Nagle, Chester Harding, Matthew Jouett, Louis Morgan, Oliver Frazer, Edward Troyde, Gen. Samuel Price, Aaron Corwene, Thomas Noble, Frank Duveneck, Joseph Bush, Paul Sawyer, and Nicola Marschall. Dixie Seldon, one of Duveneck's pupils in the Cincinnati Art Academy, came later than most of the artists mentioned, but her work compares favorably with theirs.

Take the much-admired portrait of Duveneck, which she executed in 1917. Two years later, it was shown at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, where it was chosen for illustration in the catalog advertising that exhibition. Or the excellent portraits, "Mrs. Thomas J. Emery," "Judge A. M. J. Cochran," and "Madam Nomura," which received favorable mention at art galleries.

But while she has been considered primarily as a portraitist Dixie Seldon also showed great talent for landscape and picturesque scenes. Among the best examples of these are "Cathedral Towers," "The Alhambra," and her studies of the peasantry in various countries, the "Brittany Woman Knitting" being in this latter category.

"Brittany Woman Knitting" is a very interesting study. The colors are alive and striking. Leathery skin on a tight, yellowing face, starched white cap, black gown, and brilliant-red yarn which is going into her knitting. The aged woman looks down at her worn but deft hands, shut in from the outside, busy world. She is serenity, and strength of character.

The Right To Speak - And The Right To Know

A ruling of the Internal Revenue Service, holding that institutional advertising placed by electric utilities in opposition to socialized power is not a legitimate business expense, and so is not tax deductible, has brought on a huge amount of editorial comment. Virtually all of it has denounced the ruling, as a blow at the fundamental right of free speech.

However, some people have attempted to present arguments in support of IRS. For instance, Editor & Publisher points out, this question has been asked: "Why should the private power companies be permitted to argue against public power projects when the government-owned power operations do no advertising of their own?"

Editor & Publisher has a compelling answer to that. Public power has a forum that is denied to private citizens and private business. That forum is Congress, where pro-public power members constantly praise their pet projects to the skies. This is usually news copy, and finds its way into newspapers and radio broadcasts throughout the country.

Editor & Publisher adds: "Why shouldn't private industry or private citizens use advertising to tell their story to the public at business expense even when it involves their approval or disapproval of some government action or a legislative matter which affects them?"

"Is it evil when the advertiser puts himself on record in the public prints and signs his name to it? We don't think so. It is a straightforward and honest assertion of an opinion for others to accept or reject..."

The right of people to speak their minds without penalty or hindrance, and the right of other people to know, is at stake in this. A country which accepts censorship by taxation can no longer consider itself free.

Grassroots Opinion

LONDON, KY., SENTINEL-ECHO: "There is no disgrace when one becomes mentally ill. The only difference in this form of sickness and other forms is that science has only just begun its studies into cures for mental illness, and therefore, it is widely misunderstood. But about half the cases of mental illness can be cured, and the people afflicted restored to completely normal life again, if proper treatment is provided. And no stigma should be attached to the treatment."

EAST ROCHESTER, N. Y., HERALD: "It seems barely credible that in the United States in 1958, the largest trade union, with a membership of more than a million, has become a sheltered preserve for criminals to work their will on the rank-and-file membership, and on the public at large... We wonder what's become of the average citizen's capacity for righteous indignation. A century ago the pulpits and the public platforms would have thundered forth demands that this evil be obliterated."

PONEROY, O., DAILY SENTINEL: "Schools overshadow all other community activity. Schools are determining the level of learning of all our young people. Pupils either will be prepared poorly or well for further training beyond high school. They will either be equipped to take a useful part in community life, or they won't..."

TERRE HAUTE, IND., TRIBUNE: "Polio will not actually be defeated until virtually all the population has taken advantage of the protection afforded by the Salk vaccine."

Government-Owned Industry Crushes Strike

Labor has the most to lose when the government nationalizes industry.

Recent action by the Mexican government to break up a strike involving a jurisdictional fight for control of the oil worker's union, is a good example. Strikers had demonstrated before the headquarters of Mexico's oil monopoly.

President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines ordered the Labor Ministry to seek quick settlement of the intra-union dissension.

Tear gas was the answer. No more strike—and 50 persons in the hospital.

Since my last column where I stated about some of our people retiring from their active duties, I have had several inquiries in regard to the procedure. Ladies and gentlemen, I am no authority on this. I would suggest that you contact your local SOCIAL SECURITY office in regard to your retirement problems. I am confident that they can give you the answer. As one old gentleman stated a few days ago, he hated to go up there with his overalls on. Ladies and gentlemen, regardless of what you have to wear, you are entitled to what you will receive. Find out about it, even if you have to go in your long handle jobs, believe me when I reach that age, they are going to find me knocking very loud on the front door. Maybe by that time I won't be able to afford a long handle pair. I will still hope to have a pair of shorts. You have paid your money into it, why be shy about drawing it out again. If you are sixty-five years old, "INVESTIGATE". My advice would be not to wait that long. Personally I am going to start before I am FORTY-FIVE excuse me I meant FIFTY-FIVE. As a suggestion, you widows, bachelors, old maids, and etc., don't try to set back your ages, if you do THE GOOD LORD above is the only one that can help you. Be sure that you have the proof then. That is when you apply for your SOCIAL SECURITY.

COOLER WEATHER

Is bringing in better reports on both hunting and fishing. Beckman Ritchie, 5 squirrels down Quicksand way, saw several more, Oscar Eversole and Earl Campbell 10 over Clay County way, Earl Parsons up Leatherwood way, good hunt on Lake Cumberland, John Pratt, Roscoe Walker, Uncle WHITE JIM COMBS, 88 Years young, a trou of 31 on Red River, John Hardin down KIBBLESOME CREEK way reports more squirrels than he has seen for some time, he is killing them that has a bunny tail. Look out John, you wouldn't be suggesting that there is so many that they are now crossing up with our rabbits. Wireman Nease and friends good kill on Lake Cumberland in Wayne County. Boys I believe who tops you all is none other than LITTLE SAM CALABRESE, as you all know SAM is retired from work, he doesn't have a car, he still does a lot of hunting in walking distance of town, few mornings ago he got him three SQUACKS in hollering distance of Main Street. Speaking of fishing also picking up, just ask Pat Quisenberry, Bear Brashear, Spencer Brashear, Jay Brashear all up the river way, John & Paul Pennington, Bill Davis also Gayle, Rose a young visitor from Lexington, Ky.

LONG TIME AGO

Few days ago a young man came up to me he asked if I was the writer of this column,

I informed him I was. He said, son I am 78 years young, my name is Basil Beverley. He says, I read your article about them snakes, it brought back memories when I married my first wife, that was when this happened. I was squirrel hunting with a hog rifle, I was barefooted, I was slipping on a squirrel, all at once, there was something crawling all over my legs, I had stepped on a coiled RATTLESNAKE, it didn't bite me, but ever since I have been afraid of both kind of snakes that is dead and live ones too. He stated that he told this to his EIGHTH WIFE, she replied, "OLD MAN THAT HAS BEEN A LONG TIME AGO."

CAUGHT UP

Roy Baker states that after his last hunting trip, mixed in with some fishing along with his buddies Jim Lunce, and Big Combs. That he was through until the CITY ELECTION was over. Roy, it is all over by the time you read this. I hope you are satisfied. Since you are feeding the prisoners in the city jail, have heard rumors that they have had plenty squirrel and fish on the menu. I guess this was an Election promise wasn't it, Roy. I am sure that your men were elected. Because if they hadn't of been, you would have made yourself scarce on Main Street. This, I doubt, because of all the pensions that you have been accused of drawing since the CIVIL WAR, SPANISH AMERICAN WAR, WORLD WAR I, maybe two or three other wars sandwiched in between, along with your SOCIAL SECURITY. I would say that you would or should be in the million dollar row. I think I should have a talk with that good wife of yours, Roy. I think I can really learn more from her. You just won't stay or receive from your hunting and fishing pals, I would say that you can catch up on your whittling now, Roy providing if there is any CEDAR stumps left. Because I am sure that there is not too many trees left of the CEDAR variety, you fellows have already whittled them away. I can remember as a small boy that we called it CEDAR CRAIG what is known as LITTLE BLVD. A lot of whittling has been going on. Since I was a boy of ten or twelve years old.

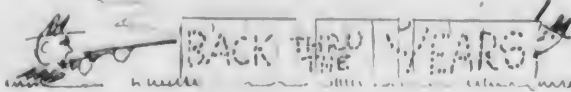

SPEAKING OF

Being caught up with—looks like Mother Nature and Father Time have both overtaken me. I had gotten this far with this edition of the ROUNDUP and out of a clear blue sky, I landed in the Mount Mary Hospital. I want to thank my many readers and friends for all their good wishes and prayers, they have sent me. You may miss the ROUNDUP for a few issues, but continue to save your reports for me until I am able to be back with you.

"I Write Because I'm Unhappy When Not Writing" - James Still

Gurney Norman

The layman no doubt wonders just exactly what makes writers write. Mr. James Still, an Alabamian by birth but Kentuckian by choice and one of Knott County's most prominent sons as a very successful writer, has a broad yet quite inclusive answer to this question:

"I write because I am unhappy when I am not writing," he says. He adds that he can't remember, even as a boy, not feeling a compulsion to write.

Mr. Still, perhaps as much as any individual, has placed Hindman and Troublesome Creek on the map by achieving considerable renown in the United States and abroad with his poetry, short stories, and a novel, River of Earth. In 1939 he was second only to one of America's most distinguished writers, William Faulkner, when the O. Henry awards for that year's best short stories were passed out, and the next year, River of Earth shared first honor's with a novel by the late Thomas Wolfe for the Southern Author's Award. His poetry and short stories appear often in such outstanding magazines as the Atlantic Monthly, the Yale Review, and the Virginia Quarterly Review.

Came As College Student

The author came to Hindman one summer several years ago as a college student, and says he knew then this was where he wanted to live. He has never felt himself to be a stranger in the Kentucky mountains, he says; rather, it was almost like coming home when he chose to settle in Knott County.

Proclamations and O.F.B.D. Provide Verlage To Fill This Space

Among the many odds and ends which fall to the Mayor of any community is that of proclaiming "weeks."

How Doug Combs ever keeps up with them all is beyond me. In my basket last night, I found a proclamation for Fire Prevention Week, beginning Oct. 5, for Business and Professional Women's Club Week, starting the same day.

These only served to remind me that in the hustle and bustle of Old Fashioned Bargain Days, this writer completely forgot that National Newspaper Week started Oct. 1, and I was supposed to come up with a proclamation for that one. Now, to my discomfort, I'll be hearing about this from the Kentucky Press Association for the next two months.

But Back To O.F.B.D.

If you missed some of the opening day specials for O.F.B.D., don't pine about it. While some merchants were caught short, most still have what you want. Those who ran out of their specials are offering new ones over Radio Station WKIC, and in today's Herald. There's still two big days left, Friday and Saturday, and if things continue at the present pace, Saturday ought to be a field day for the bargain-wise shopper.

P.S.: If you like O.F.B.D., tell your merchant. All of them went to considerable effort and work to set up this sale. If some of us got caught short, it was only because we never anticipated the tremendous public reaction! We promise to do better next time.

No More Like This Week!

If any more weeks roll around like this past one, I'm gonna find me a tumble-down tombstone and crawl under.

First O.F.B.D. As if getting all the banners and registration tickets printed wasn't enough, yesterday morning when the sale started, I walked into the office five minutes late as usual to discover we had not printed Vic Tedesco's tickets, nor had we delivered the banners and tickets to around eight other stores. Man—the fur was flying! The old blood pressure hit a new high. Trotting up and down Main like an ostrich with its tailed clipped, I finally got 'em all delivered.

On top of that there was the resignation stories to cover and write, this column to pound out and a blue million other odds and ends.

But you know something—I love it. And for all my griping, here it is, the paper's out. And I got more gray hair fretting over nothing.

I Wish I'd Said

"When you can think of yesterday without a regret and of tomorrow without a fear, you are on the road to success." Highways of Happiness.

"Of course, tennis wouldn't be the game it is without two players." John Foster Dulles.

"If you want to get rid of someone, just tell them something for their own good." The Old Timer.

"Never before has the American dollar had such good-byeing power." The Old Timer.

Newspaper Is Eyes, Ears, Conscience of Community

National Newspaper Week is a concentrated effort to explain the functions of a newspaper. To inform, to interpret, to entertain—this is the role of the American press. Its foundation is the First Amendment's guarantee of freedom of the press.

The American people possess many other freedoms, as set out in our Constitution, and a priceless one springing from them is the right to know and to be informed. Here the newspaper performs its greatest service. It is the eyes, ears and conscience of a community. It jealously guards the many rights of people while giving them the facts and information necessary to be good citizens. For only when we know the truth can we support what is good or condemn what is bad.

Wars have been fought to gain and preserve our independence. So, too, is battle waged by the newspapers of our country to defend and guard the freedoms and rights of a free people. This is a never-ending fight, quiet at times, at other times loud—but always on behalf of the American people.

A newspaper informs its readers of what is going on in the world. It deals with such diverse events as the fall of a foreign government or an accident at a country crossroads. It could be that the accident is of more interest to the average reader, but what is happening around the world affects us all. A good editor realizes this and balances the significant with the interesting.

A newspaper is a service organization whose prime responsibility is always to the reader. It performs a service when corruption in government is exposed. It performs just as important a job when the reader is informed of an outstanding accomplishment of a public official. It gives its subscribers an opportunity to voice their thoughts in its letter columns and provides accurate information upon which to form opinions.

Public opinion is reflected in the people's choice of elected leaders. To keep this country strong and free our leaders must be honest and wise. Therefore, sound thinking and a good foundation of knowledge are vital necessities to good government.

American newspapers are a strong link in the chain of defense of our way of life. The pages of a newspaper reflect the history of our times, the good along with the bad, and what thoughtful person could fail to choose our way of life after comparing news from behind the Iron Curtain with that of the free world?

Newspapers are a vital part of the American economy, purchasing many millions of dollars of materials each year and offering, through advertising opportunities for businessmen to increase their revenue and for buyers to use their money to the best advantage.

The free world has been shrinking. Evidence of real trouble comes in a nation when desperation finds an implacable foe in a free press, and nuzzles it. We free Americans must be on guard constantly against any encroachment on the people's right to be informed correctly. For that is the real meaning of freedom of the press.—by Buford Boone, Tuscaloosa, (Ala.) News, winner of 1957 Pulitzer Award for editorial writing.

off the road leading to Litt Carr.

Mr. Still's homelife is reminiscent of the 18th century Concord, Mass. philosopher and poet, Henry Thoreau, though he is far from the reclusive that Thoreau fancied himself. Mr. Still lives alone in a neat cabin almost 150 years old, one of the oldest houses in Knott County. He has lived there 19 years. Though small and with a rough floor of wide boards, the cabin has most of the conveniences found in rural homes. The relaxed, happy mood the author displays when he returns to his cabin in the evening is evidence enough that no home could ever compare with this one for Mr. Still.

Does Not Live Completely Alone

When asked if writing compensated for his living alone, he almost scoffed and replied that by no means did he live alone. He explained that he was surrounded by about 800 children every day and that neighbors were in close proximity. Mr. Still's very quiet home, with the large four-poster bed and wall lined with books and reproductions of famous Van Gogh paintings, and with the little garden, apple-orchard and quaint stone well outside, is enviable.

Mr. Still mentioned the fact that many writers picture themselves as tortured individuals, creating from their pain from existence. He smiled at this and said, "Not me. I enjoy everything I do."

And this quote perhaps as completely as any characterizes a very simple, intelligent man who seems to have found his haven in a Kentucky valley midst the common people he feels so much a part of and of whom he writes so movingly.

Land Value To Affect '59 Soil Bank Payment Rate

Farmers who have already "reserved" part of their land under the Soil Bank's Conservation Reserve program may be eligible for the higher 1959 annual payments on the balance of their cropland if the production of the land warrants such increased payments. Green B. Brashear, Chairman, Perry Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

FAMILY THEATER

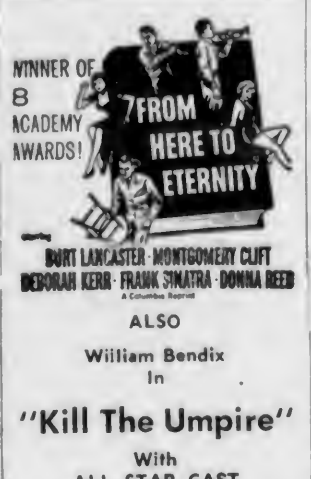

Saturday & Sunday
OCT. 4 & 5

Farmers with more productive and valuable land will generally find higher rates applicable to their farms than in previous years. Nationally, the annual payment will average around $13.50 per acre, compared with the previous national average rate of $10. As in previous years, farmers taking part in the program also receive assistance during the first year of the contract to help cover the cost of installing a conservation practice on the "reserved" land.

Cinema Drive-In

Sun.-Mon.-Tue.
DOUBLE FEATURE PROGRAM
OCT. 5, 6 & 7

The Chairman explained that no change can be made in the level of annual payments to be made under an already-existing Conservation Reserve contract. During the past 3 years, farmers have entered into Soil Bank contracts voluntarily under the then-prevailing rate of payment. Such a contract may not ordinarily be changed or broken during the period it is effective unless, of course, such a change were in the public interest.

For farmers who would like to put their entire farm in the Conservation Reserve, the higher rate of annual payment may be available for eligible land not already in the program and an additional incentive payment of 10 percent above the normal rates will be made if all the eligible land is put in the program for at least 5 years.

Important P.T.A. Meeting Held

The hunt for sang went fine for Mr. and Mrs. Charlie McNulty of Delphia, when they found 2 1/2 lbs in the first three house. But was climaxed when a rattle snake struck at Mrs. McNulty. I can just imagine they soon headed home after finding the snake.

First P.T.A. Meeting
The first P.T.A. meeting of this school year was held at the Leatherwood school, Monday evening at 6:30.

The first order of business was the election of officers, Mr. Joe Gill as president, Mr. Earl Deaton as Vice President. There were 35 present.

Arrangements were made for a Halloween party to be had at the school, Oct. 21. The funds raised are to be spent for things needed in the school.

A membership committee was appointed and every one was urged to assist in making the attendance larger.

A lively discussion was enjoyed on many subjects and most everyone considered it a very important meeting. Let's keep it going strong. Every school needs an active P.T.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown White moved from an apartment in the top to an apartment in the bottom of Shade Dixon's apartment building.

Plans To Be A Teacher

Tall Tales Were Told by Early Pioneers

Frankfort, Sept. 27 — Kentucky is the native habitat of the tall tale.

For example, relates Lawrence S. Thompson in "Kentucky Tradition," pioneers used to boast of wild turkeys so fat that they burst their skins upon being shot to the ground.

Other wild stories recalled by Thompson: Down in Lincoln County around Elizabethtown it was boasted that no Kentucky woman was adept in cooking pancakes until she could toss one out of the chimney and run out the door and catch it in her pan.

John J. Audubon swore that he saw a rattlesnake leaping from limb to limb in a high tree in pursuit of a squirrel.

Audubon, the naturalist, pulled the leg of the great scientist, Rafinesque, with the tale of the "Jack-Devil-Diamond" fish, equipped with stone-diamond scales in oblique rows, which, when dry, would produce fire in the manner of flint and steel.

Squirrels stole ears of corn and escaped across the river on shingles by propelling their improvised craft with their tails.

Captain Bates, one of the most famous of Kentucky giants, was eight feet tall. As a young man with a Kentucky cavalry unit, he would dismount when the going got bad and carry his horse over the worst places.

A traveler in West Kentucky posted bills he was in the market for cat skins. He asked that the cats be delivered alive to a small hotel in a county seat. He offered two dollars for black cats, a dollar and a half for yellow, one twenty-five for spotted and a dollar for others. Crops were neglected while farmers searched their barns and woods for cats. On the appointed day cats arrived by the hundreds. No purchaser. That town came to be known as the worst cat-infested town in the Commonwealth.

Fourth Mine Fatality
Miner Killed
A 50-year old Leslie County miner, Boyd Campbell, was killed instantly Tuesday afternoon when he was thrown from a mine jeep and crushed beneath a mining car.
The accident, according to Arlie Webb, State Department of Mines and Minerals, occurred when the jeep and car collided in the No. 2 mine of L. & E. Coal Co. at McIntosh Creek, near Wooten.
Campbell's death was the fourth fatality in the Kentucky River Mining District this year, Webb said. He noted this is "at least half" the number of deaths registered for the same period last year.
Webb said Campbell had been working on a mainline tram motor in the mine shortly before the accident occurred. He and another miner, Coy Bowling, also of McIntosh Creek, were leaving the mine in the jeep when they collided with the car.
Campbell was thrown out of the jeep and tossed beneath the wheels of the car. Bowling received minor facial injuries and cuts and bruises.
Campbell was a cutting machine operator at the mine.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson
October 5, 1958
"INTRODUCING THE GOSPEL"
Scripture Luke 1:1-4; 3:1-14; Acts 1:1-5
What a thrilling lesson! The joy that comes from introducing the Gospel to any man, woman or child is the highest joy that is given to man. There is no greater service that any man can do another than to introduce him to the Gospel, to the saving power of Jesus Christ.
The Scripture is well chosen for this lesson. All three portions are taken from the writings of Luke, who wrote also the Acts of the Apostles. Luke, a physician, was writing to "Theophilus, a 'Lover of God' or a 'Friend of God'." He was probably a man whom Luke knew, the these messages could have been addressed to the one who reads this Sunday School lesson. To be sure he was writing, by the power and grace of the Holy Spirit to all men of all times. This includes you and me. It includes every man who speaks the Truth in his heart; it includes every man who loves God. How does a man know that he loves God? By loving his fellow man, His word tells us. How does a man know that he loves his fellow man? By loving God and keeping His commandments, again His Word tells. (If John) Luke, who was a very practical man, gives us the history of the settling of Jesus, relating the rulers of the government and the year in their rule in which Jesus came. He tells of the forerunner, John the Baptist. In thus introducing the Gospel, Luke appeals to the mind, giving understanding, before the word is applied to the heart. The Word must be received thru our minds and believed in our hearts. Luke catches our attention, points to the truth of the physical circumstances which relate to the great and wonderful story of the Gospel that he is about to relate.
The personal testimony is given after the facts of the circumstances are told. The story of John the Baptist is a thrilling account of the message of the forerunner of Jesus. John came to announce the coming of the King. He came to prepare the people for the nature and mission of the Kingdom. What kind of a Kingdom was this to be? It was a spiritual Kingdom. How was it to be known? "Let him that hath two coats give to him that hath none. Let him that hath meat give to him that hath none. How glad this makes people, both the giver and the

Errors Caused Bowling Resignation

Gilbert told the Board that while State approval for the plans of the building had been given by the Division of Building and Grounds, no approval had been granted by the Division of Public Instruction or the Division of Finance.
Approval was withheld, the three State officials explained, because the county didn't have the money to pay for the building, and because under Kentucky law the "luxuries" of education cannot be approved so long as children within a school district are attending school in tumbledown, one-room shacks and do not have state-accepted classrooms.
Overspent On Buses
The inaccurate report on the audit resulted this year when buses here in May when it paid approximately $3,800 in excess of the State authorized limit. Under the State purchasing plan for buses, a county may purchase locally only when the price is equivalent to or below what manufacturers may bid the item into at the State level.
The inaccurate report on the audit resulted this year when Bowling's annual report to the State Board in June showed the deficit at around $32,000. The result of the State audit, Swain revealed, showed the actual deficit to be around $146,000 in the general and capital outlay funds.

Classroom Contract Cancelled
The board also cancelled a $73,000 contract to Smith and Brown Construction Co., for new classrooms at Leatherwood. No approval had been granted for the rooms by the Division of Finance because the county school treasury didn't have the money and was not strong enough to support a bond issue.
In another economy move, the Board agreed to remove the "Bookmobile" program from its jurisdiction. Gilbert told board members that while the Department of Education endorses the Bookmobile, the department could hardly recommend the Perry County school board paying the costs of the program in the light of present conditions.

Wooten Named Superintendent

Board Chairman George Caudill, late Tuesday night, after Gilbert and Roschi had described the financial condition of the county school system as "acute" ... "serious" ... and "urgent," Roschi told the board the county school treasury has a deficit of $146,000, a "serious financial situation" which would require the talents of a man trained in high finance. Members approved of $50 per month when the bank executive appeared before the board Wednesday afternoon and said he would accept.
Separating the jobs of superintendent and treasurer will be new to the county. Bowling held both jobs. The new method, however, was approved unanimously by the board after Gilbert told members that education administrators frown on the superintendent also holding the position of treasurer.
The gravity of school system's financial situation was indicated when Gilbert told the board, Tuesday.
"I do not believe you could go on any further in the present circumstances. It is getting worse instead of better."
Finances Mismanaged
One after the other, the three State officials related incident after incident of mismanagement in the board's financial affairs. The three officials, however, repeatedly noted that State audits had turned up nothing to indicate Bowling had used his position for personal gain or had defrauded the county.
At one point while commenting on the need for a treasurer of "high integrity" and "above reproach," Roschi commented: "I am not implying this to mean any reflection upon Mr. Bowling or Mr. Bowling's integrity. Rather than cases of bad judgement, we have nothing to indicate."
In reviewing the financial problems, Roschi told the board that Bowling's report to the State in June 1957 had showed the county school general fund approximately $75,000 in the black.
This past June, Bowling's report showed a deficit of approximately $32,000 in the general fund. During the Department of Education's annual audit of the school funds, it was discovered that the actual deficit in the general fund was $136,000.
The capital outlay fund, approximately $4,800 to the good in 1957, was discovered to be around $10,000 in the red this past June.
In rough figures, Roschi's comments show that the general and capital outlay funds, lumped together, went from $80,000 in the black last year to $146,000 in the red, or that around $226,000 was spent.
Some Claims Contested
Actually, just how bad off the treasury is remains to be seen. State auditors are continuing work on the records, and the deficit can get worse or better, depending either way on what claims against the board are approved by the State and a survey of all claims against the county school treasury.
Claims involving money spent illegally, as the board did according to the three officials, will not be paid by the board or state, Gilbert said.
Other than for the teacher payroll and money for utilities, county school funds are now frozen. The board was instructed Wednesday to start screening all claims and to submit those in proper order to Swain in Frankfort.
Swain said claims not fully documented will be rejected for payment. Already under investigation are claims involving public school funds spent for unauthorized work at Buckhorn, the Leatherwood gymnasium and for school buses purchased in May. Swain indicated that as the audit continues and as claims against the board are presented, they are subject to be fully questioned.
Most of the board's and Bowling's problems, according to the three State officials, stemmed from undertaking capital outlay projects without State approval as required by law and from entering into expenditures which were illegal. A furnace installed at the Buckhorn Presbyterian Child Welfare Agency and a building built there breached Kentucky statutes involving the use of public funds on private property and "separation of Church and State." Money spent on the Leatherwood gymnasium never had State approval. Buses purchased here in May had a price tag exceeding the State limit. An appropriation to the County Health Department was illegal.
